

The Circuit Satisfiability Problem

The Circuit Satisfiability problem (also known as CIRCUIT-SAT, CircuitSAT, CSAT, etc.) is the decision problem of determining whether a given Boolean circuit has an assignment of its inputs that makes the output true. CircuitSat has been proven to be NP-Complete.

Group Members:

- Adebayo Emmanuel Adeoya (201596566)
- Mitchell Billard (201028784)